

Food and Beverage: Fungicides on oranges

No sample preparation

Easy to use

Assures food safety

- Traces of fungicides on our food pose a potential risk to human health
- A swabbing with methanol from an orange bought at a grocery store was analyzed
- DSA-TOF analysis detected the presence of two fungicides on the orange skin
- The analysis was performed in 15 seconds with no sample preparation and external calibration

